The McCain Institute for International Leadership seeks:
Rule of Law & Governance Intern

Based in Washington, DC, the McCain Institute for International Leadership at Arizona State University offers outstanding internship opportunities for college students, graduate students, recent graduates or young professionals. Candidates interested in advancing character driven leadership, playing a role in finding solutions to the world’s most pressing humanitarian issues, and working to effect change in both domestic and foreign policy are encouraged to apply.

The Rule of Law & Governance program, developed jointly by the McCain Institute and ASU’s Sandra Day O’Connor College of Law, has two components: academic and operational. The academic component teaches students about the development of rule of law and good governance in transitional and post-conflict states, covering institution building, transitional justice mechanisms, judicial and prosecutorial capacity building, and business aspects involved with international development projects, among other topics. The operational component is a focal point for securing and implementing international development projects in the areas of rule of law and governance pursuant to grants and/or contracts secured by the College of Law and McCain Institute.

Position Responsibilities:

- Research various issues regarding international rule of law, good governance, transitional justice, and other relevant topics;
- Represent the Institute and the Program at events, conferences, and seminars to learn about work being done in relevant areas;
- Track media sources for stories related to the rule of law, to be disseminated via the program’s various social media platforms;
- Create relevant, daily content to post on the program’s social media pages; help devise social media strategy for rule of law projects under the supervision of the Program Coordinator;
- Provide programmatic assistance to Rule of Law & Governance staff;
- Work with Rule of Law & Governance staff to complete administrative and other tasks as required.

Requirements:

- Responsible, mature, professional, and flexible;
- Ability to work independently and exercise excellent judgment; be a self-starter;
- Must be highly organized, able to balance multiple priorities, meet deadlines and work well in a leanly staffed office environment;
- Excellent writing and verbal skills; possesses a high-degree of attention to detail;
- Previous experience using social media platforms like Twitter, Instagram, YouTube, Facebook, etc. in an official capacity;
- Comfortable interacting with high-level professionals and officials on a daily basis; and
- A genuine interest in foreign policy and international rule of law.
